INSOLENCE GETS MAN HEAVY JAIL SENTENCE

As a result of his insolence, Joe Zevooch will swelter ninety days in the county jail. Joe was charged with having caused trouble on a street car last night. He refused to pay his fare when requested by the conductor, and the car was stopped to eject the man. He went out on the platform, but refused to step to the street. The conductor took hold of him and Joe pulled the conductor off the car and a tussle followed. Officer Rinehart was summoned and the man arrested.

This morning at the hearing it developed that the young man is a bad actor. Nearly two years ago he bit Chief Wheatley's finger and it was store several weeks. He attempted to bite the conductor of the car last night.

He was fined $5.00 and costs or three days to the street. No sooner had the sentence been pronounced than the young man declared he would never work on the streets. Quick as a wink Burgess Dunlap changed the sentence to read $25.00 and costs or 90 days to jail. The prisoner then decided he would work on the streets, but he will be taken to Greensburg to serve the ninety days. He is 22 years of age.

Joe Steiner came over from Donora yesterday. He fell off the water wagon and injured his head. He claimed it was his first fall in 22 years and that it would be the last. The burgess dispatched the man.

Ed. Holden from Possum Glory. Clinton county, was a prisoner for the third time in his career of 60 odd years. Ed begs. He claims he is deaf and dumb, and has people write messages in a little book. Holden plead for leniency but he had to go to the ditch for three days.

William Eller was arrested charged with using bad language and threatening Officer Rinehart. He denied the charge and said he stood ready to prove that the officer had a grudge against him. This the officer denied and claimed he had witneses to prove the charge. The hearing was postponed until this evening at 7:45, at which time both sides are expected to have their witnesses.

TYROL PASS GARAGE HAS BEEN CLOSED BY SHERIFF

The Apperson brothers Auto company with offices at Pittsburgh, have filed suit against W. A. Powell of Monessen, doing business as the Tyrol Pass Garage company, to recover $1,978.95. The plaintiff company set forth in its statement that Powell came to their Pittsburgh office and purchased two automobiles which he sold to customers, but never paid the manufacturers in full. They claim a balance of $1,978.95 is still due and sue to recover that amount.

BOY SCOUTS WILL HAVE HOME IN ELECTRIC PARK

Scout Commissioner George Bowes has received a letter from Col. Bope that the grounds at Electric park may be used for scout headquarters. Mr. Bowes decided that it would be far better to get a location out in the open somewhere, so that the boys could have freer range than if a room in town was used.

The grounds will at once be made ready, a large tent erected and regular headquarters established. There is much enthusiasm being manifested in the movement The boys are out over town getting subscriptions to further the work and are meeting with good success.

Saturday afternoon the leader and members took a "hike" out over the hills, took with them ample provisions, cooked a meal without dishes, enjoyed the outing and returned to town wiser and better prepared to meet the conditions of life.

A list of examinations questions have been prepared and those wishing to join must familiarize themselves to become scouts.

BELLE VERNON HAS THE SEASON'S BEST STORY

Belle Vernon comes to the front with the greatest chicken story on record and it can be substantiated, too. A merchant of that place has in his show window three young chicks hatched from eggs that were never laid. Mr. Culler killed three laying hens and took from each an egg which had been formed. One of these had not been finished yet as to the shell, so he took plaster and made the balance, binding it with strips of court plaser to kepe it from breaking. The eggs were placed in an incubator and on the 19th the chicks made their appearance They are all doing finely and are as healthy as any chicks ever hatched.

CHARLEROI DEFEATED

Charleroi put up a poor argument and went down to defeat last night in the debate in the A. M. E. church on "Should Criminals be Compelled to Work?" The Charelreoi debaters were so far below the Monesen debaters in thenr arguments that they drifted clear off the subject. There was a large crowd and much interest displayed. The affirmative side was taken by Julius Smith and Alex Pangburn of Monessen and the negative by Wm. Smith and Lock Ilues of Charleroi and after some discussion, the judges, Mrs. Lula Spriggs, Wm. Taylor and Noah Jones decided in favor of the Monesen men. After the debate, all adjourned to the lecture room where a social hour was spent.

STRANGE CAR BARELY ESCAPED BEING PINCHED

The suit of W. D. Hunter against the borough of Monessen to recover damages for change of grade in front of his property, Reed avenue and Sixth street, was called yesterday morning. Very litle was accomplished

Upon an agreement between the council on both sides, the jury, the attorneys and engineers were driven to Monessen in automobiles to view the premises. This was permissible by an order of court. The party arrived here yesterday afternoon and spent about an hour looking over the premises, returning to Greensburg late in the evening. This morning the case was resumed for trial. Borough Clerk Pittman, Engineer A. W. Johns and a committee of council went to Greensburg this morning to appear as witnesses.

For violating the borough traffic ordinance, the driver of the car that brought the jury to Monessen should have been arrested. The reason possibly he escaped was because none of the officers saw the machine when it left Donner avenue to ascend the Sixth street grade. It crossed Schoonmaker and went up the hill at about thirty miles an hour. The way the dust and smoke circled behind it, an observer would have thought the court order gave permission to ignore all traffic laws, knock people over and smash everything in the way. The next time it may be different.

Ice Company to Supply Trade

The Monessen Ice company has installed three teams for the ice business of the season. The big Packard truck will again appear on the streets of the town and will supply ice to the trade summer and winter at former prices. The business will be in charge of Harry Fellenbaum who will give the affairs his personal attention. Michael Detrick will have charge of one of the trucks. Parties wanting prompt service will do well to phone or address The Monessen Ice Company. This company guarantees the best of service at all times, the hotter the weather, the better the service, as teams will be supplied to meet all demands. 1t

UNION SERVICE MOTHERS' DAY

At a meeting of the Monessen Ministerial association on Friday, the advisability of holding a "union" Mother's Day services, was suggested by one of the ministers. After due discussion, it was proposed to refer the suggestion to the various official boards of the respective churches. At a meeting yesterday afternoon, each pastor reported that the church they represented looked with favor upon the proposition. As a result, a committee on arrangements having been appointed, were directed to carry to completion every detail to assure a most successful meeting. As a partial report, the meeting will be held in the First Baptist church on Sunday evening at 7:45. Rev. A. H. Davies will deliver the sermon.

A special feature of the services will be the music, under direction of the Baptist choir, assisted by the male chorus, under direction of Prof. Davies. It was also decided to give each person attending the services a carnation as they entered the church. Everyone is cordially to attend this service in honor of their mother. An offering will be lifted to be used to purchase flowers for the occasion.

Governmental Robbery

If there is, in truth and fact, the remotest possibility of the Connecticut hat manufacturers dispossessing the individual members of the Danbury Hatters' Union, seizing their homes and private bank accounts to satisfy the judgment obtained against the union for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws, as threatened by D. F. Lowe & Co., in an open letter, then it's high time for amending the Sherman, or any other rotten law, that permits it.

Whenever this, the land of liberty about which we prate, witnesses the day that helpless women and children can have the roofs that shelter them taken from above their heads to satisfy the greed and spleen of a few money grabbing, labor crushers, because their fathers and husbands belonged to a union which technically violated a Federal law, an offense which if committed at all, they were in no sense individually parties to, then that is the day to lower the stars and stripes to half mast and drape the goddess of liberty in sackcloth and ashes.

The press dispatches say that scores of families will be evicted, if the National Union does not pay up. Suppose it doesn't, suppose it can't, are the people of Connecticut, the people of the United States, going to sit sepinely by and see this crime perpetrated?

It's not a question of trusts and trust laws.

It's not a question of capital arrayed against labor.

It's a question of humanity, of a proposed outrage against the law of human right, that will make the old Irish landlord evictions look merciful in comparison.

When it comes to pass, then dismiss the Colorado Fuel slaughter as a matter too trivial to demand attention.

Hard But True

The McKeesport Times bears down rather hard, but it's gospel truth.

"A Slavonic resident of this city deposited $1,000 in a National bank in an adjoining county. The bank had an excellent reputation and a "Foreign Department." The depositor could not read English, but he received a book and signed a couple of papers, which the interpreter told him was part of the transaction. The bank failed and when the foreigner inquired about his deposit he was astonished to hear that he had no money in the bank, but had given a check to an officer of the institution and held the officer's promissory note. The official was in the hands of a receiver.

"We commented yesterday on a German veteran from this city who has spent 14 months in jail on a technical question. You read a couple of months ago where neighbors proved to the satisfaction of a judge in this county that a woman was sick and her little boy stole something for her to eat. He was found guilty and the judge said: "Don't cry, young man, I will send you to a place where you will have a comfortable home"—and he did; he sent him to the Huntingdon Reform school to grow up with crooks and degenerates.

"The bank official has not been arrested on any technicality. After this bank closed the examiner in charge made the remarkable statement that if the bank had been closed two years ago matters would have been worse, and during those two years the government allowed this poor Slav and hundreds of others to make deposits. The percentage of loss through bank failures is very low and that is the reason why an example should be made of the man who robbed this Slavonic resident. But will that be done?

"No wonder the foreigners don't understand our peculiar legal complications."

An Awful Mix

A Maryland court of appeals has rendered a decision which, if it sticks in the court of last resort, will simply raise Cain in the select society circles of that state. It makes a divorce, granted in Nevada, or in any other state of temporary residence, void. Just think how this will mess things up for no telling how many Maryland couples: close to a hundred in Baltimore alone. In the first place, it makes all those who have remarried, bigamists, but that we can overlook for their intentions were good, though their execution was poor. But now if they keep on being "remarried" they are liable to get muchly talked about. The thing to do, of course, is to permanently forsake their Maryland, chase out to Reno, where the six months' law is on again, and do it all over, start anew, be Reno-vated, as it were. But supposing—just supposing that some of them fell down on their divorce stunts this time, or that some of the re-divorced men and the re-divorced women got crazy about each other and didn't go back home at all, or that—Great Scott, it's too filled with dread possibilities to talk about. Somebody ought to Osterize those judges quick. They deserve it.

Industrial Leader Faces Accusations

Washington, D. C., May 4—In expectation of a verbal battle that will make industrial history, the eyes of America are on Washington today, when the continued hearing of the United States Commission on Industrial Relations is scheduled to bring John D. Rockefeller, Jr., again into the limelight. So great are the issues that hinge on this hearing, that it is called a crisis in Wall street.

So serious are the charges made against Mr. Rockefeller by the chairman of the commission, Frank P. Walsh, that it is believed that either the industrial leader or the federal investigator must be discredited. Although the hearing is before the commission of which Mr. Walsh is chairman, the public demand for a showdown in the controversy will permit of no unfair tactics, and young Mr. Rockefeller will be given full leoway to explain the circumstances which brought forth the accusations. He will be subjected, however, to a rigid cross-examination, for it is believed there are many details in the controversy which have not been made public.

The charges made by Mr. Walsh last month were based on letters and telegrams exchanged by Mr. Rockefeller and officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. The son of the oil king testified before the federal commission in New York that he had no knowledge of conditions in the coal fields. Mr. Walsh charges that Mr. Rockefeller was in reality the directing mind throughout the bitter struggle; that he exercised personal influence that extended to the State House at Denver and presumed to dictate letters to be sent out to the President of the United States and the Governors of the States over the signature of the Governor of Colorado; that he withheld information from the Department of Labor which was trying to avert tthe strike; and that full reports and detailed letters concerning every phase of the strike and the proposals for settlement were sent to him from the first.

Mr. Rockefeller has declared that Mr. Walsh made statements and announced conclusions which were unwarranted; that the complete correspondence will show that he did not direct the Colorado strike; that the statement that influence was brought over to the State House at Denver was false; that the agent of the Department did not ask for information; and that the full correspondence shows that he did not direct the strike, and on the contrary, that his suggestions for the settlement of the strike were not followed.

The extensive hearing given in New York on the connection of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with the big Colorado strike, has whetted the appetite of labor leaders for further information. The labor leaders charged the younger Rockefeller with being the man behind the big labor troubles, but the road to proof was narrow indeed. Rockefeller's assurance that the Colorado affairs were left to the local officials of the coal interests cleared his skirts for the time being. But the federal probers insisted on looking into the Rockefeller correspondence of the strike period, with the result that information was gleaned on which Mr Walsh based his accusations.

The hearing set for today is a life or death struggle for the industrial relations committee, for if the charges made by its head are proven to be unfounded, much of its extensive work will be discredited.

Frank P. Walsh, the fighting chairman of the commission is a clever lawyer and has made a great reputation in Kansas City, first as a member of the Tenement Commission, then as attorney of the Board of Public Welfare and president of the Board of Civil Service. He is an avowed believer in public ownership, and has the operation of the coal mines by the government. He was appointed to his present office by President Wilson in 1913.

Although the Rockefeller controversy is the one big issue of the hearing scheduled for today, the commission will take up the charges of the railroad telegraphers against the Pennsylvania railroad, will hear Robert T. Lincoln, chairman of the board of the Pullman company in the deferred Pullman inquiry, and go into the industrial situation in Porto Rico and the smuggling of Asiatics into this country.

HILL TOP STREET RAILWAY NOTICE

The opportunity is now being presented to every citizen of this community for stock in the Hill Top Street Railway company. In order that everyone so desiring may secure an interest in this home project, the trustees are now circulating stock subscription papers, limiting the number of shares to one person at ten for the present. To make this a success, everyone is expected to help, as you may purchase from one to ten shares at $50.00 each, payable 10% cash, 20% July first, 20% September first, 20% December first, and 30% April first, 1916.

It is hoped that every person in the community will become a stock holder since the number and payments are made so low. Already $10,000 worth of stock has been subscribed, which indicates the interest being taken. Do not wait for a member of the committee to call upon you. See one of them at once and have your name on this list. See them for information regarding the whole project.

Lincoln Buried Half Century Ago

Springfield, Ill., May 4—Just fifty years ago today the body of Abraham Lincoln, the martyred president, was laid to rest in Oak Ridge Cemetery, in Springfield. The interest of the world had centered in that solemn death-car which carried the body westward from Washington.

In a stone catacomb the remains of the great Emancipator and his family are interred. Lincoln's body rests in a plain marble sarcophagus, his name simply carved on the end. The famous quotation from his inaugural address "With malice toward none with charity for all" is carved upon the tomb. The visitor may stand beside the tomb, for no grating separates the public from his resting place.

A shaft of granite 98 feet high, with a collossal statue of Lincoln in bronze marks the spot.

WOMEN SHOULD TAKE WARNING

If the statement made at a New York Assembly of women that healthy American women are so rare that they are almost extinct, is true, it is time for the women of America to take warning and look to their health It may be headaches, dragging down pains, nervousness, mental depression that are tell-tale symptoms of some organic derangement for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs—is a specific and may be relied upon to restore women to a healthy normal condition.

The Record in Monessen is a Unique One

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ills and is looking for an effective kidney medicine, better depend on the remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills have given great satisfaction in such cases. Monesen citizens can testify to this. Here is a case of it:

H. R. Wilbur, 131 McKee avenue, Monessen, says: 'I contracted a heavy cold which affected my kidneys. My back was sore and lame all the time and I had to have help to turn in bed. My whole body was like a board. I often had to have someone dress me. Shooting pains darted through my body and I couldn't do my work. My body became bloated. The secretions were profuse in passage and contained sediment. I had dizzy spells and hot flashes and I was miserable in every way. I doctored for years but didn't improve. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and two boxes practically cured me. Now and then I take Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney tonic, and give them credit for keeping me well."

SYNOPSIS.

Reginald Nelson, a young Englishman of high birth, comes to this country to win fame and fortune. On the steamer he meets Albert Townley, a minister, Mrs. Graham and her pretty daughter, Joy.

Reginald goes to Bronson, home of his three new acquaintances, where he learns that Joy's father is a leading lawyer, who is the mainstay of a corrupt political ring. He gets a job.

The young Englishman enters the social life of Bronson. He falls in love with Joy, and later discovers that she is engaged to be married to Roland Gregory.

Allan Rutledge, another minister, and the Rev. Mr. Townley confer on the evil moral and laboring conditions in Bronson. The reform element meets and decides to have Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, aid in a "cleanup."

Editor Marchmount offers Reginald a position on his paper. The latter accepts, and later he performs a heroic act in stopping a dangerous runaway.

Nelson starts on his work on the Courier. He begins to investigate the suspicious death of Mae Mobray, a youthful worker in Roland Gregory's factory plant. The councilmen and saloon keepers oppose the coming of Billy Sunday.

A tabernacle is built for Billy Sunday, and Reginald, in the columns of the Courier, begins a spirited campaign in favor of the evangelist. Sunday holds his first meeting in Bronson.

Much to the anger of Mr. Graham and Bud McCrea, a councilman, Sunday's work proves effective as an attack on vice. "By the help of God we'll clean up Bronson," says Sunday.

On a Sunday afternoon the reformer makes a powerful attack on gambling and saloons and hypocrisy. He describes saloons as "breeders of lawlessness."

Joy finds it impossible to prevail on Roland Gregory, her fiance, to join the church. Mr. Rutledge gets hold of the "fatal ring" that poor little Mae Mobray wore at the time of her mysterious death.

Reginald and the two ministers, Allan Rutledge and Albert Townley, resolve to make a tour of the vicious resorts in Bronson and expose the whole disgrace.

A detective takes Reginald and his associates through the slums. They see gambling and all night drunkenness. The politicians are enraged at this action.

CHAPTER XV.

Independence Day.

THE citizens of Bronson were preparing for a glorious celebration on Independence day. For weeks the business men and factories had been working on floats, banners and street decorations, and when July the 4th dawned it found the Michigan city ready to greet it in a way which would have done honor to the largest cities in the land. A number of the more public spirited citizens, led by Edgar Prince, George Edwards, Mr. Marchmount and others like-minded, had charge of the celebration, and they spared no efforts to make it a great occasion. Allan Rutledge had been engaged to make the oration at the park following the monster parade.

Meanwhile the circulation of the Courier was falling off. People were losing confidence in it. The presence of Ned Rowlands on the staff was discouraging to many of the radical reformers.

The young editor knew nothing of the schemes of the conspirators who were now confident that they had Reginald in their grasp. They planned in a very short time to take advantage of the falling subscription list of the Courier to unceremoniously oust the budding editor from his chair and follow up this blow by circulating stories defaming his character and also by beginning action in the courts for the immediate payment of the notes which Reginald Nelson had signed in payment for his stock in the Courier.

The evening before the Fourth Allan Rutledge and Reginald were closeted together in the private office of the editor.

"I have a complete list of the illegal and vicious resorts which are open every night," said Reginald, holding a paper in his hand, "and I also have a list giving the names of the property holders who are receiving rent from these lawbreakers."

"And your plan is to give all your information to the public?" The minister spoke slowly and deliberately.

"Precisely," answered the other promptly. "I feel there will be no danger of advertising these resorts by publishing their locations, as I am fully convinced that the issue of the Courier tomorrow will mean the elimination of this evil from Bronson for a time at least."

"And you will publish the names of the property holders also?" responded Allan Rutledge.

"Certainly. It is the privilege of a newspaper to make public such information at any time."

"Let me see the list of the property holders," said the minister.

He took a paper from Reginald's hand and glanced over it.

"Isn't this an awful record?" he exclaimed. "Why, here are some of our leading capitalists in Bronson. What can they mean by renting property for such vile uses?"

"Oh, that is a simple proposition!" replied the editor. "I discovered the secret of such things while I was still in England. Reputable business would only pay an interest of from 6 per cent to 10 per cent, but these resorts pay an interest on the investment of 15 per cent to 30 per cent."

"It is a mere matter, then, of sordid gain," said Allan Rutledge in disgust.

"That is all," replied the editor.

"Certain capital asks for nothing but interest. It cares not for God nor man."

"Go ahead," said the minister, with a stern look on his face. "Make your editorial and your exposure as complete and radical as you can make it. In my speech in the park I will refer to your paper, and demand that the citizens of Bronson declare another revolution."

Independence day dawned serenely beautiful. The rising sun was greeted with cannons and loud reports of giant firecrackers.

As the monster parade moved slowly through the streets of Bronson that morning Reginald Nelson mingled with the crowd of onlookers, and felt his whole being thrilled with the patriotic emotions which were vibrant among the people. For the moment he forgot that he had staked his entire future on the issue of the Courier for that day. He forgot the rage and anger that unquestionably would be aroused against him by the men whose greed and falsity he had exposed.

"This is the true land of destiny," he said to himself, as he gazed on the passing pageant, and noticed the enthusiasm and spirit of the crowds which had massed themselves on either side of the line of march.

Just at that moment there were some of Bronson's citizens who were not at all interested in its celebration of Independence day. In the office of Mr. Graham a little company composed of Roland Gregory, Ned Rowlands and Bud McCrea were sitting with blanched faces.

"Why didn't you report to us what he was going to do?" McCrea was saying angrily to Ned Rowlands.

"I knew nothing about it," the other replied, in a frightened tone of voice. "I did not know there was a detective working in the city." That's how Nelson got the list of names and places.

"What is to be done, Graham?" asked Bud McCrea in a hopeless tone.

"The fellow has taken advantage of us," replied Mr. Graham, speaking with emphasis, "but he is in our power. Today we oust him from his place as editor. I will begin action against him in the courts tomorrow for payment on his notes. You know, they read 'payable on demand.' We will demand immediate payment, and I know he will not be able to meet it, and we will ruin his credit."

The eyes of the lawyer flashed fire as he uttered these last words. On the table before him lay the special morning edition of the Courier. In heavy leaded type was the story of the insincerity of the city administration in regard to reform of abuses and a complete list of all the gambling places and vicious resorts in Bronson as well as the names of the owners of the property. It was a terrible exposure.

"But it's too late," said McCrea, with a groan. "The people will be roused to madness by this mass of stuff, and they will make a clean-up themselves."

Mr. Graham was silent for a few moments and then said confidently: "The history of these spasmodic efforts at so called reform shows that these ebullitions of popular outcry are short lived. Let us be patient. With the Courier in the hands of a safe man we will have everything calmed down by election time."

"I hope so," responded McCrea, but he shook his head dolefully.

"We must proceed to business," said Mr. Graham. "I want to go over to the park and hear Dr. Rutledge give his oration. Now we will depose Nelson right away, and you, Rowlands, are to take charge. The office is closed until 5 o'clock this evening. When Nelson returns you order him out and tell him that the officers of the Courier Publishing company have discharged him and have placed you in charge."

"Better send a couple of good trusty policemen up to the office at 5 o'clock," said Ned Rowlands. "That Englishman is a tough proposition when he gets excited."

"I am glad you suggested that," said Mr. Graham. "I will see that you are amply protected as the lawful editor."

After some further discussion the little company separated, Mr. Graham walking to the large Bronson park, where the crowds had already assembled to hear the orator of the day.

At the close of the music Edgar Prince stepped forward and introduced Allan Rutledge as the speaker for the occasion, making a short complimentary address. Mr. Graham started as he saw the minister stride to the front of the platform, for he noticed that he held in his hands a copy of the Independence day edition of the Courier.

Allan Rutledge proceeded in earnest tones: "It is the birthday of our nation, this glorous nation which is God's last opportunity for the human race. The history of our country is the history of the rise, progress and victory of civil and religious liberty." The speaker then eloquently reviewed the leading events which led up to the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the principles for which the fathers fought and bled and died.

The audience was listening with the closest attention when suddenly the speaker ceased. He stood silent for a full moment. Every eye rested upon him, wondering what he meant by his long pause.

"But Bronson is unworthy of a place in this land consecrated by the blood of our heroes!" he exclaimed in thunder tones. "Why do we celebrate Independence day? We have abandoned the principles of our fathers, and greed for gain and blasted honor have now the pre-eminence among us."

The crowd was thunderstruck. They stared at the minister, unable to understand his meaning. He held out the copy of the Courier which had been in his hand during all his speech and shouted louder than ever: "Have you read today's Courier? It will tell you the black story of our infamy and shame. I well know these vile enemies of our country's good cannot stand the light of day, and your brave editor, Reginald Nelson, has turned on the light, and Bronson will yet be clean."

At the mention of the editor's name a mighty cheer went up from the crowd.

The reception which was given to Reginald Nelson's name made Mr. Graham scowl darkly as he stood on the outskirts of the crowd. "This is serious," he said to himself.

The people thronged to the platform to congratulate the speaker.

"We are going to change things and change them soon," said Edgar Prince loudly as he shook hands with Allan Rutledge. A friend of the manufacturer heard his words and shouted, "Edgar Prince for our next mayor!" There was instant applause by the company, and a mayoralty candidate was there and then nominated.

"Reginald Nelson has turned on the light, and Bronson will yet be clean."

Among the others who made their way to the minister was Reginald Nelson himself. He had been lost in the crowd and had listened with profound interest to the oration of his friend. At the mention of his newspaper and at the cheers which the crowd gave when Allan Rutledge spoke his name the Englishman was strangely moved. Tears came to his eyes, and in his soul he said to himself, "It does pay a man to devote his time for the interest of his fellow men."

"Here is the real hero of the day!" cried Allan Rutledge as he espied Reginald. "Come up here, Mr. Nelson, and let the people see you!"

Reginald was helped up on the platform, and the people shouted on every side: "Speech! Speech!"

"Say something to them," urged Allan Rutledge, who was standing at his side.

"I want to thank you good people of Bronson," he began simply, "for the reception which you have given me. I just wish to state in this public way that it grieved me to the heart to publish the real state of Bronson's misgovernment as I have done in today's issue, but I did it in the interests of your homes and firesides. I believe you will not allow such conditions to exist when you know about them. My enemies will say that I have attacked Bronson, but I have only driven the knife of publicity into a cancerous ulcer which is poisoning the very life of our community. I thank you."

MONEY IN SIGHT FOR GOOD ROADS

Anthracite Tonnage Tax is Now on Calendar.

OVER TWO MILLIONS FOR STATE

Mothers' Pension Bill Now In Appropriation Committee After Passing House and Two Readings In Senate. Good Roads Day on May 26 Expected to Stir Highway Advocates to Great Activity.

Harrisburg, May 4.—Before the session of 1915 draws to a close, Governor Brumbaugh, because of action taken by the house last week, and which will be followed up this week by the senate, will shortly have on his desk a new revenue raiser—the Dawson anthracite tonnage tax bill.

The Dawson bill provides that a tax of 2½ per cent on the market value of anthracite shall be levied on every ton of hard coal mined or washed. Fifty per cent of this tax is to go to the state to be used exclusively in the construction and maintenance of state highways. The remaining 50 per cent is to be returned to the municipalities where anthracite is mined.

This tax alone will raise approximately $5,000,000 annually. And so that the coal companies shall not proceed to put the tax on the consumer, as was done two years ago when the Roney act was passed, Governor Brumbaugh has asked the legislature to pass a resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to probe the increase in the retail rates on anthracite. Members of the house and senate from the rural districts look with favor on the Dawson bill, since it means much for their districts in the way of new roads.

Representative Dawson, of Scranton, sponsor of the bill, is one of the youngest men in the house. A few years ago he was secretary of a miners' local union. Today he is a successful coal operator. With Dawson leading the fight in the house, and Senator Catlin, from the biggest anthracite producing county, Luzerne, in charge of the bill in the senate, its early passage is assured.

Governor Brumbaugh was at first inclined to believe that the state should receive 60 per cent of the coal tax. Protests made by the people of the anthracite counties, backed up by their legislators, and the subsequent action of the ways and means committee in favoring a "fifty-fifty" distribution of the revenue, will, it is believed, prompt the governor to accept the bill in its present form.

Another measure of state-wide importance that made much progress the past few days is the mothers' pension bill introduced by Representative Vickerman, of Allegheny. It carries an appropriation of $800,000. Because of a scarcity of funds, this amount may have to be pruned some when it gets to the governor. However, it is certain that a substantial amount will be available for this commendable purpose the coming two years.

Under the Vickerman bill the money will be distributed to the various counties, based on the population. There is one condition; the state shall appropriate the money only after the county has agreed to subscribe a similar amount. The pensions for widows would be based on the number of children in the family. The monthly allowances vary from $12 to $36.

When a county elects to accept the provisions of the mothers' pension bill, Governor Brumbaugh will proceed to name a board of managers, all women, for the handling and distribution of the pension money. A bill along this line passed in the session of 1913, and is already in operation in a number of counties. It has proved a big success and has aided materially in bringing succor and relief to many poor families that had lost their breadwinners through illness or accident in the mines and industrial plants of the state.

Governor Brumbaugh is evincing a lot of interest in the statewide "Good Roads Day." May 26 is the date selected. On that day, all over the state, officials and laymen interested in good roads are to jump right in and do their share towards improving the highways in their immediate neighborhoods.

Robert J. Cunningham, new head of the highway department, will see to it that his department shall render all aid possible in the way of providing tools and other equipment for the use of the good roads associations formed in many counties. Thirty-eight of the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania have organized along these lines.

Governor Brumbaugh, at this session, may not press his plan to consolidate all of the state departments intimately associated with the natural resources of the state, such as the forestry department, game and fish series and the water supply commission.

Nothing would please the governor better than to see the employees of those several departments working under one head, but it has been pointed out that just now the time is not opportune for such a radical departure in the management of such an important part of the state's business.

However, Governor Brumbaugh will expect of the heads of the departments hearty co-operation in case of emergency, such as in the fighting of forest fires. Getting the forest rangers, game and fish wardens and the state police in action, recently, did much to put a stop to the fires that were devastating the forests of Pennsylvania.

It looks Nice—Yes—But How Long Will It Stay That Way?

THAT'S the point—how long will it stay that way? All paint looks practically the same after it's put on a house—but the real test of quality comes in the period of wear, and the appearance while wearing. LAWRENCE HOUSE PAINTS come ready mixed in the purest Linseed Oil—that's why they last far longer and hold their brightness better than other paints.

Lawrence House Paints

are very economical.

They not only appear well when placed upon a house, but the pure Linseed Oil from which they are made offers a perfect protection against the elements and prevents your property from looking "run down." They cost the same as other paints—but there's extra value in every gallon.

If you simply mention the brand "LAWRENCE" to the painting contractor who undertakes your work, you'll not be troubled with another painting problem for a long time. —we guarantee it.

Association for Horse Breeding

Lexington, Ky., May 4—Many breeders and admirers of thoroughbred horses gathered here today to complete the organization of the American Thoroughbred Association which will boom breeding in the United States and Canada. Racing blood will be imported principally fillies and young mares from England. Pledges toward a capitol stock of $100,000 were received, representative turfmen from the United States and Canada contributing. The horses to be imported will be sold in this country at public auction.

Another event in horsedom is the auction today of the yearlings from the stable of the late James R. Keene. There the 53 yearlings offered at today's auction.

Biennial Convention

Los Angeles, Cal.— It is expected that 200,000 women of the United States will be represented at the national biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian association, which will be held here for eight days, beginning on Wednesday next. The business of the convention will relate largely to student work and reports will be received from all of the college branches.

BASE BALL

In a great pitchers' battle between Ryan and Yeator, the St. Leonards Lyceum won a hard fought 10 inning game from the Belle Vernon Athletes by the score of 4 to 3. The Athletes started early, securing two runs in as many innings, but in the fourth on a single by M Cleary, a double by Pesterfano and another double by Ryan, the score was tied. In the fifth the Athletics secured another run and led by the score of 3 to 2 until the eighth when Joyce singled stole second and scored on M Cleary's single to right. In the tenth Sadler singled, stole second and came home with the winning run on Lafferty's two bagger. Ryan's pitching and all round playing was easily the feature, while the fighting spirit of the team was great ly in evidence during the entire game. The Lyceums seem promise of a great record this year, having already defeated two very strong ball clubs. Next Saturday they meet the fast Donora A. C. on Page park at 3:00 o'clock. Admission to the hard stand 15c. Ladies free. Everybody welcome.

Ye Old Country Store an Attractive Feature

Apparently nobody misses "Ye Old Country Store" at the Harry C. Hunter Show grounds this week, near the Monessen end of the Charleroi bridge. To say that this enterprise for the local hospital is a scream from start to finish is putting it mildly. Everybody seems to appreciate the plan of "Ye Old Country Store" when they see it in operation and to patronize it liberally.

Saturday night Reuben (John) Cushing took entire charge and did so much business that the expense of the entire week was nearly wiped out. While he had at one time 13 young ladies and women ably assisting him, he desires to acknowledge especially the services of Neighbor (Lee) Bailey, who progressed so rapidly in the work that last night he was promoted to Reuben Cushing's place in charge and became chief "barker" for the show.

As bad as the weather was, threatening rain and storm, nearly a fourth as much business was done as on Saturday night, when they had the valuable services of such efficient men as W. O (Red) Williams and Dr. Wallace Boyle Stewart. Everybody likes it and either comes back to clerk or to buy at "Ye Old Country Store."

Tonight many of the old hands will be at the wheel, but Farmer (Pierce) Johnson wants to go up to clerk and leave Neighbor Bailey at home to look after his business in town. Tomorrow night Dr. A. S. Sickman of Lock No. 4 will have charge and be assisted by members of the hospital staff and their wives. A big night is promised with exceptional bargains for all.

But what is going to "break the camel's back" for business will be Thursday when Jeremiah (Kerfoot) Daly of the Bank of Charleroi steps into "Ye Old Country store" to do the business. Such able helpers as Burgess Steve Woodward, "Bill" Gaut and Banker A. N. Rush, all of Charleroi, will help push. Further announcements will follow.

Miss Genevieve Daby, superintendent and Miss Enda Coffey, assistant, of the hospital have been helping out at "Ye Old Country Store" both nights.

Suffrage Notes

The Executive Board of the Westmoreland County Suffrage Association will hold their monthly business meeting on Friday, May 7th, at the residence of Mrs L. W. Mace, Greensburgh, Pa.

Latrobe Suffragists observed Saturday, May 1st, as planting day for the suffrage flower gardens.

Quite a few ministers in Westmoreland county will deliver suffrage sermons next Sunday, May 9th, in connection with Mothers Day.

Senator Vare's "Women's Watchers Bill" is reported out of Senate committee. The bill provides that whenever an equal suffrage amendment shall be submitted to the people, two watchers for each polling district in each county may be appointed by the county chairman, by those supporting and those apposing the amendment.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 4—Hundreds of clergymen in all parts of the state will include a plea for the political emancipation of women in their "Mother's Day" sermons next Sunday, May 9th. This announcement was made at the state headquarters of the suffragists here today, following the receipt of information from the various local chairmen, all of whom have been urging the clergymen in their communities to make a special "vote for mother" plea in their sermons that day.

In Allegheny county more than 70 per cent. of the clergymen thus appealed to have pledged themselves to grant the suffragists' request. Advices from other counties indicate a majority of the ministers and priests all over the state will also include the suffrage appeal in their next Sunday's sermons. All in all, close to a thousand sermons on the subject are expected to be preached.
